Joki child care – with a heart and understanding

A ffectionate and value-oriented teaching and education

You entrust your most precious possession to us: your child. We assume this major responsibility with all our heart. It is important here for us to appreciate and support your child as an independent personality.

We rely on the quintessential and most sustainable form of learning by a child with this: learning as part of everyday activities and through play. Supported by a stable, transparent structure and a safe, value-oriented atmosphere, we offer your child the room and the opportunity to „be and act like a child“ while actively being there every step of the way to help him or her become a confident and independent person.

This is because a child's positive self-image forms the basis for a happy and fulfilling life.

H olistic education and development

We develop and form the basic skills required for a successful life as part of a community using a holistic approach starting from our children's needs and interests. We place particular emphasis on achieving emotional stability and acquiring social skills here.

Children will be stimulated to explore all educational areas, allowing them to discover and develop their own individual aptitudes and talents.

C ommitted professional staff with a heart

We are constantly asked how we manage to offer such affectionate and well structured supervision and care for children. The answer is this: we create the framework conditions required by our employees each day in order for them to plan the daily routines with all their heart.

Our nursery managers lead their teams with professionalism and passion. Three teaching employees care for 12 children in the crèche groups (between 6 months and 3 years of age), while four employees look after 25 children in the nursery schools. These staff members are supported by 1 to 3 floating support teachers at each site. In addition, our teaching and educational staff make sure that employees receive systematic support and assistance, and ensure ongoing training and quality development measures.

Only contented employees are committed and attentive companions for your child.

B ilingual education

Bilingual supervision is a particularly valuable addition to our approach to teaching. In addition to at least two German-speaking teachers, there are also generally native English-speaking teachers, as well as native Spanish speakers at the Joki Forstenried site, each day in every group. Following the immersion method, children immerse themselves in the new language as part of their everyday routine and acquire it through play.

Scientific studies clearly show the comprehensive benefits of bilingualism during early childhood: lifelong greater mental agility, improved linguistic abilities, openness to new ideas and a general increase in attentiveness.

In short, bilingualism makes you clever.

E xercise and healthy nutrition

Exercise and a fresh, balanced diet are the foundation for optimum mental and physical development.

In our health policy, we place great emphasis on the balance between activity and rest. The children live out their exercise requirements through regular activity and strengthen their motor skills at the same time. Our spacious rooms and gardens provide room for climbing and balancing activities as well as focused exploration of a wide range of materials, plants and nature.

Healthy and tasty is not a contradiction. At each of our sites, trained chefs take charge of implementing our science-based nutritional concept. They make sure our little “Jokis” are provided all day long with freshly prepared meals that meet a child’s needs. This allows us to share and discover the great variety of flavours our planet has to offer.

Strong roots – strong children.

I ntegrated music offering

Music and dance bring so much joy to life! Music also encourages social behaviour, results in demonstrably better cognitive performance and compensates for any lack of concentration. As a result of these findings, Joki integrates lively music activities into the day-to-day teaching schedule at all sites. We never stop singing, making music, dancing and laughing – be it planned or unplanned.

Music is integrated into everyday activities for your child.

T ransparency and communication

In their early years, children are often capable of giving only limited accounts of their experiences. That is why it is so important for us to engage in continuous discussions with the parents. Daily discussions in passing, information notices and digital picture frames with current photos keep you up-to-date at all times. We report on your child’s development in regular parental discussions.

Our e-mail newsletters and parent evenings also provide detailed insights to our daily routine and the overall educational context.

An active educational partnership promotes trust and peace of mind.

R egular excursions to nature and to the neighbourhood

Our children attain an affinity with nature and receive sensible suggestions for independent indoor and outdoor play. This includes activities out in the open air, explorations allowing them to find their way around their living environment, sensory experiences within nature as well as cultural input. Shared adventures and experiences stimulate a child’s interest and help to form and strengthen early friendships.

Your child conquers his or her environment as part of an everyday adventure.

R egular offers to parents

We provide lasting support to our parents in the form of free specialist lectures to answer all questions regarding raising your child, and by way of celebrations and parent cafés. This also leaves enough room for personal discussions. Everyone returns home from these fun events with fresh inspiration.

We support you and your child during this important part of your lives.
